PITCAIRN MAN CONSIDERED A MOST WANTED FUGITIVE ARRESTED IN NEVADA

Pittsburgh PA ---- Sheriff Kevin M. Kraus announced today that a Pitcairn man, considered a most wanted firearms fugitive, has been arrested in Nevada.

28-year-old Jamal Bailey has been considered a fugitive since April 2020 when he failed to show for trial on a case involving 2 firearms charges and a drug charge. A nationwide bench warrant, identifying Bailey as a dangerous fugitive, was issued in May 2020 for violation of bond conditions.

In October of last year, detectives from our office developed information that Bailey was using an address in Las Vegas, Nevada. Our office reached out to the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department to request their assistance in locating Bailey. Bailey was able to elude capture for the past 6 months by changing addresses in and around Las Vegas until he was finally apprehended yesterday.

Bailey will remain in the Clark County Detention Center pending extradition back to Allegheny County.
