PITTSBURGH WOMAN WANTED FOR AGGRAVATED ASSAULT TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Pittsburgh PA ---- Sheriff Kevin M. Kraus announced today that a Pittsburgh woman, wanted on several charges including aggravated assault and false imprisonment, has been taken into custody.

32-year-old Yolanda Scott was charged earlier this month by Penn Hills Police in connection with an assault that took place December 20, 2023, at a residence on Mount Carmel Road in Penn Hills. The male victim sustained a number of injuries including a fractured nose and a fractured eye socket. The victim told police at the time that he had been held against his will while being assaulted and managed to escape the situation by climbing out a second floor window.

Following the filing of the charges, Penn Hills Police contacted our office and requested assistance in locating Scott. Earlier today, detectives from our office found Scott inside of a residence on Dreary Street in Pittsburgh and arrested her without incident.

Once in custody, she was transported to the Allegheny County Jail.
