PROFESSIONAL BASKETBALL PLAYER OWING MORE THAN $100,000 IN CHILD SUPPORT TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Pittsburgh PA ---- Sheriff Kevin M. Kraus announced today that a former standout basketball player at Schenley High School has been taken into custody for owing more than $100,000 in child support.

36-year-old DeAndre Kane has been a fugitive since 2023 when he failed to appear for a Family Couty hearing concerning the missed child support payments. Kane, who led Schenley High School to a City League basketball championship in 2008, has been playing professional basketball overseas for various teams since 2014.

Detectives from our office this week, with the assistance of the Allegheny County Police Department and the United States Department of State, developed information that Kane would be returning to Pittsburgh Friday from Iceland, where he currently resides while continuing his pro basketball career. Our detectives, accompanied by Allegheny County Police Department officers, went to Pittsburgh International Airport Friday and our detectives took Kane into custody as he disembarked his flight from Iceland.

Kane was subsequently transported to the Allegheny County Jail to await a hearing in Family Court.
